

Archery Proves Popular With South High Girls

Man's debt to archery in his climb from the cave to the skyscraper is so great that the Encyclopedia Britannica ranks it as a cultural advance comparable to the discovery of fire and the invention of the wheel. Although no one is sure, the origin of archery dates back to the Mesolithic period about 5000 B.C.

Archery has been called "the sport of man since time began" and if its present popularity will serve as any indication, it will continue for many more thousands of years.

At South High, the girls' physical education department has launched a new program in archery. All freshman and sophomore girls are given the basic skills in many activities so that in their junior and senior years they may elect the activities of their choice.

One of the favorite activities elected this spring was archery. Some junior and senior girls have acquired considerable skill in this sport. Using 30 pound bows from 20, 30, and 40 yards, the girls are hitting the bull's eye with amazing regularity.

Seven girls who scored highest in the first period, based on the Junior Columbia Point system, are: Carol Bonnette, Frances Davis, Roberta Sals, Jean Cordes, Susan Herrick, Catherine Polard and Nancy Tymstra.

Miss Marguerite Flint-Smith is the instructor in archery. "I feel certain that some of the girls will make archery a hobby after they have graduated," she says.

Thirteen Is Lucky For Girls

Thirteen, a number considered unlucky by most people, proved to be very lucky for 13 girls chosen for the '65-'66 pep squad at North High School.

The girls were selected on the basis of skill, neatness, personality, grade average and citizenship.

North High's new pep squad includes cheerleaders Ellen Bryden, Barbara Liberti, Sue Martin, Roberta Peterson, and Jackie Wegelin; majorettes Donna Alexander, Mary Cerda, and Gloria Takacs; and flag twirlers Barbara Cross, Alice Klute, Sheri O'Leary, Linda Patty, and Pat Tralle.
